Program: CET Jordan

Course Title: (AM/LANG 380) Islamic Shar'ia: Qur'an, Hadith, and the 'Ulama

Total Hours: 45

Recommended Credits: 3

Primary Discipline / Suggested Cross Listings: Arabic Language / Middle East Studies, Religious Studies, Islamic Studies

Language of Instruction: Arabic

Prerequisites/Requirements: ACTFL Intermediate Low or equivalent, final placement at discretion of academic director

Description

This course examines the definition of the religion of Islam from its founding, and the rich interpretive traditions of the hadith, or teachings of the Prophet Muhammad. It acquaints students with Islamic ethics, the way Muslims relate to people of other faiths, and varied Islamic positions on contemporary issues. Students compare the varying interpretations and ijtihad of Islamic scholars or 'ulama with emphasis placed on areas of disparate opinion among Muslims. Finally, the course examines the process by which worship becomes custom and the reasons why.

This course begins meeting a few weeks into the program, after a period of intensive instruction in MSA and Jordanian dialect. Depending on the number of students enrolled, the course may be split up into smaller groups so instructors can devote personalized attention to students at varying levels of Arabic to ensure all students are able to actively participate in the larger class meetings. Class sections make up approximately one-third of the total class hours, while large group meetings and activities make up the remaining two-thirds.

Objectives

Upon successful completion of the course, students:

- develop a comprehensive understanding of the specific aspects of the pillars of Islam and the acts of worship, the biography of the Prophet Muhammad before and after Islam, and the hadith as a source of legislation in Islam
- are introduced to Islamic moral reasoning according to the Prophet, and negotiated through Muslims' relationships to one another and to non-Muslims.
- learn to distinguish between ijtihad, fatwa, and original texts
- identify subjects that have been carefully and critically interpreted by Islamic scholars
- become familiar with current important topics in Islam:
 - extremism and terrorism
 - homosexuality
 - dress and adornment
 - women's rights
 - Islamic economics
 - religious parties

CET Syllabus of Record

- democracy
- develop speaking and writing skills learned in the Modern Standard Arabic course
- increase their Arabic vocabulary bank and high-frequency expressions
- analyze expressions commonly found in historical documents that overlap with modern usage.

Course Requirements

Students must complete all readings in advance of class meetings and come prepared to discuss and analyze content. Readings average 10-30 pages per class. Mandatory practica in the form of excursions and field-based activities make up a part of the course. A final paper of 15-20 pages is required.

Grading

The final grade is determined as follows:
